Tur only result of the effort by the stood by its principles even when it be came necessary to stand in blood. "For in error, but under the existing condiresolved that no republican shall be." Aye, there's the rub. You can never make him see otherwise than that the democratic party will go to the demnition bow-wows, unless he leads it otherwise. A number of very intemperate speeches were made, that stuffed up conglomeration of ignorance and self-concelt Jack Gross, becoming peculiarly offensive and that red headed and vain glorious turkey cock, Bronston, even going so far as to refer to John G. Carlisle as the boss traitor of them ali. The result was that nearly ali of the sound money men voted next day for the boss traitor, reducing Blackburn's vote to 48, the two populists voting for Pettit and 63 republicans for St. John Boyle. Ali hopes of Blackburn's election, if there were ever any, have gone giimmering and the republican prospect is not much better. Blackburn's successor will not be elected by this Legislature. That much seems to be absolutely cer-

Occasionally we read of a Federal and the fullness thereof belongs to those who claim to have fought for the Union, and when we do we like to make honora ble mention of him even if we can not write his name in letters of gold and pictures of silver. Mr. Andrew Van Bibber, known to all newspaper men as the best roller maker in America, himseif a gallant ex-eoldier, writes in a letter to the Richmond Register: "In reply to your question as to how I feel on the pension queetion I would say that I feel just the same as ever. Gen. Peyton Wise, hones for. chairman of the Virginia executive committee for the arrangement of the reunion, denounces the action Gen. Walker, of the G. A. R., and says he is deserving of the censure and condemnation of all good people. It has been 31 years since the war closed, but it will never be over with the skulking cowards, who trade on continued bad feeling between the sections.

The fifth jury which Dr. Massie fras faced at Owenton since he killed Jesse Honaker in a most cowardly manner, fixed his punishment at life imprisonment. He ought to have been hung long ago for the crime was committed in 1891, but each of the four times that he has been convicted the court of appeals has come to his rescue and on the flimsiest technicalities reversed the finding of the jury. For the sake of iaw and order, a quenching of the mob spirit and for the atonement of the blood of a poor man who was torn from his family, it is hoped that the court of appeals wiii throw away its microscopes and let the jndgment stand.

AFTER several abortive attempts to nominate a candidate for U.S. Senator ln piace of Dr. Hnnter, the republicans finally centered on St. John Boyle, Esq., a Louisville lawyer of considerable prominence, and brother of S. G. and B. G. Boyle, the well-known newspaper men, and nominated him by acciamation. The nomination seems to be a happy solution of a very mixed question, but they do say that notwithstanding his assertlons now that he is "the soundest of sound money republicane," he is badiy tainted with the free silver heresy. The trail of the serpent seems to be over them all.

SPAIN had better behave himself. She is in no condition to fight the United States, being bankrupt and getting worse. Portlist Poor voted for Blackburn Saturday for the first time and a acene of the wildest excitement ensued. Seeing a chance to elect him sound money democrats changed their votes, and it seemed so certain that Blackburn was elected that the Associated Press sent out a bulletin that he was victor. But Dr. James and Speaker Blanford were equal to the occasion and changing to Carlisle begged the sound money democrats and the republicans to do likewise. This checked the stampede and the ballot resulted $5,000. Blackburn 60, Boyle 59, Carlisle 5. The democrats forced a second ballot, but the republicans broke the quorum and the result was Blackburn 43, Carlisle 15. And so it came to pass that even with his two soldier, who doesn't think that the earth | populist friends Joe didn't make good his promise of election.

Sister Anne Ayrea

Sister Anne Ayres, the pioneer in founding sisterhoods in the Protestant hear agalu." Episcopal church in this country, died recently from bronchlis at St. Lnke's hospital, on Cathedral heights. Miss Ayres was born in London, Jan. 3. 1816. In 1836 she came to this country with her mother, four sisters and a brother. Miss Ayres had been well educated, and through the efforts of Henry Carey, the president of the Phornix bank, she obtained a number of pupils, in prominent families of the city.

Miss Ayres continued her work as a tuter for nine years. In the summer of 1845 she took the steps that resulted in the formation of the Sisterhood of the Holy Communion. That summer she spent at College Point with the slster and niece of the Rev. Dr. Mnhlenberg. the rector of St. Paul's church. One Bunday Dr. Muhlemberg preached a sermon on Jephthah's vow. Miss Ayres was deeply interested in the sermon, and after carefully considering the matter she decided to devote her life to church and charitable work. On All Saints' day, 1845, she was ordained by Dr. Muhlenberg us a Sister of the Holy Communion. The ceremony attending the founding of the first sisterhood in the church was very simple, and no one witnessed it except the sexten of the

From that time she was known as Sister Anne. She established a school at 330 Sixth avenue. When the cholera visited this country, she rendered valuable assistance in the hospitals as a volunteer nurse. She was alone in the sisjoined her, and took the name of Sister Meta. In 1854 Sister Cutherine entered the order, and three years later Sister Harriet became a member. During this period an infirmary was established and the work of the sisterhood was much extended. In 1855 the infirmary erected by John H. Swift was completed, and it became the home of the sisters.

Sister Anne devoted her time to the two infirmaries, the St. Luke's hespital and the Church Industrial colony at St. Johnland. - New York Sun.

Swings Her Censer.

The modern woman has taken to burning incense at her own shrine. The latest thing in jeweled smelling bottles is a veritable censer that swings from milady's chatelaine, and, when lighted, diffuses n delicate perfunic and a tiny cloud of incense.
